Assistant Principal's Perspective

I have commandeered the Broadcast for this week! I love when Mr. Burnett gives me the chance to share some thoughts!

Next week is Spirit Week! That means our regular season for Basketball is coming to an end! It's been so exciting to have a front row seat to watching these kids grow and develop in a sport that they love. It is always incredible to watch coaches pour into the lives of athletes. They are able to say things to a kid that parents would never get away with! I can tell one of my children the same thing over and over, but if a coach says it, it's suddenly what they want to do! How does that work? Our athletes at BCA have been blessed with some amazing coaches this year! I am so blown away by how God brings the right people at the right time for our kids.

Every adult that takes a minute to speak into the life of a child makes a lasting impact. Whether it's your children, or their friends, or any other child; your words plant seeds that will grow and affect their future. After watching kids grow up - whether as a teacher or as a coach - I can tell you which kids have parents who consistently spoken life and whose have spoken criticism. I can tell you which homes have consistent habits of studying and going to school and those who have not.

I can tell you for a fact, that I am not always a consistent person! My words are not always filled with life and encouragement, and we are far from consistent when it comes to studying! However, when I realize my mistake, we talk about it. I apologize. We love. We hug. We keep going. Your kids don't need perfection, but they need you to keep working! They need adults in their lives who are going to lovingly help them see what needs to be corrected and how to correct it. Then they need you to water those seeds and help them grow in their lives, their relationship with the Lord and others, in their sport. I am grateful for coaches who were willing to push my kids out of their comfort zones when all I wanted to do was keep them comfortable. There have been teachers who have seen potential in my kids and pushed them towards it when I was missing it!

I was just thinking about Jesus growing up. Luke 2:52 says, "Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." That sentence immediately follows the story of Mary and Joseph leaving him behind in the temple and walking a day's journey away and then having to go back and find him!

Our kids grow up in spite of us! As we are finishing up this school year, challenge yourself to see what your kids need from you! What seeds have been planted that you can water with encouragement? Challenge them to step out and improve their skills at something - especially their math facts!

Thanks and God Bless!

Mrs. Burnett, BCA Assistant Principal
